

KASHTON WEINBER

REAL-LIFE ANIMALS SUPERHERO

Ten-year-old Kash has been walking dogs ever since he was old enough to walk himself. He also spends most of his time volunteering at animal shelters, but even that wasn't enough for him.

He decided to use his longtime hobby of woodworking to make an even bigger impact on the animals he loved. By selling his toy robots called "block bots" at local craft shows, he has raised over $4,000 for his local animal shelter and made a huge impact.

Kash said, "It brings kids joy and helps animals at the same time!"
